Mark Surguy

Mark has over 25 years' private practice experience of advising and representing companies, institutions and individuals in domestic and international commercial litigation, fraud and insolvency cases across multiple sectors.

His practice encompasses commercial misconduct, corporate investigations, freezing and search orders, asset tracing and other remedies arising out of suspected fraud, cyber-fraud and civil and criminal wrongdoing.

Mark has deep expertise in and knowledge of the workings of computer forensics, digital evidence, data protection and cross-border e-Discovery, and uses leading-edge technology to assist in fact-finding.

He specialises in designing pragmatic solutions to novel and complicated problems.

Jasper van Dooren

Jasper is a consultant within the Legal Technologies department at Kroll Ontrack in the UK. His role is to advise lawyers and their clients on how to effectively manage electronically stored documents in litigation, arbitration, and internal or regulatory investigations.

Jasper provides consultancy and training to assist clients with the identification, preservation, collection and analysis of potential evidence in document intensive cases. Jasper advises clients on strategies and techniques to help lawyers deploy technology efficiently and cost-effectively, as well as assisting them in the design of practical workflow processes and the selection of the technical solutions required to full fill these goals
